HalloWings Monarch Migration Celebration

The fall season is a gorgeous time of year on South Padre Island! The weather is sweet and fall flowering nectar plants all over the island and in our gardens burst into full bloom in perfect synch with the passing of kaleidoscopes of migrating Monarch butterflies on route to wintering sites in central Mexico via the coastal flyway! Join us as we celebrate one of the wonders of nature through South Padre Island during our HalloWings over SPI Monarch Migration Festival at the South Padre Island Birding Nature Center & Alligator Sanctuary on Saturday, October 30th from 9am-3pm.

Enjoy a family-fun filled day learning about the wonders of Monarch migration through butterfly gardening presentations, butterfly garden tours, nature crafts, live music, games, and more!! Attendees will also have an opportunity to purchase native plants to help aid the Monarch migration at home! This will be a great way to experience this beautiful season on South Padre Island!
